

Dreaming of a White Xmas

Contributed by Dave Foster
Last Updated Tuesday, 22 December 2009

In preparation here are a few photos of the snow tonight (21st Dec) just down the road in High Wycombe...

View up Amersham Hill - all the cars have been abandoned, along with the lorries and buses

Amersham Hill - when this photo was taken there was absolute silence notice anything unusual? (see below for answer)

Sledging down Amersham Hill and almost no cars in sight

View down Amersham Hill that will not have changed much in 100 years (except for the central reservation, the keep left sign, the 30mph speed limit, the electric street lamps and the refuse bins for collection!!!)

The usual aspect of photo two is that the red, amber and green traffic lights are all on at the same time. In fact the lights change depending on the traffic motion and as there wasn't any they were doing a complete cycle of colours every few seconds.