Last Updated Friday, 02 July 2010

Target editor Andy West takes over the community magazine leaving sub-editor Barrie Penfold to write her last words after 30 years in the role. Front page story features the new play equipment which has been installed at Watery Lane and news that Linda Melton is retiring as headteacher at Wye Valley School. Wooburn Residents Association feature its fund raising plans for Christmas lights around Wooburn Green.

There is details about the Village Fete and the thrill of a rock n roll concert at the centre in July. Young cricketers are featured at Little Marlow while the new play area at Cliveden is featured on the Children's Page. Scouts Parade, celebration of a Diamond Anniversary and growing a tomato plant from seed all make special features in the issue. Those who have lived locally for a long time might like to look at the school photo from the 1970s taken at Hedsor Primary School before it closed.

Then all the usual must-read items like Marina Life, Section News and Group Members - combining to make the June/July issue of Target a good read.
